

Amplify the Discussion

You've been a part of a #WholeChildChallenge discussion with other leaders who, like you, are looking for ways to continue and amplify the discussion. The ideas make sense and you're ready to move the messages out through your partnerships and networks.

Stay Connected

Join the online conversation on social media using #WholeChildChallenge

@wholechildchallenge

facebook.com/WholeChildChallenge/

wholechildchallenge.org

Follow Jonathan's blog:
medium.com/@jraym0

Watch & share the official video:
vimeo.com/265265714

Order a copy of Wildflowers for a friend, available on Amazon

Host a conversation

Do you have network members or key audiences that would be interested in this conversation? Are there ways you could use Jonathan's personal lessons learned and the stories captured in Wildflowers to spark creative discussion and action? If you are interested in hosting a discussion, contact Laura Jahromi at laura@forumfyi.org.

Hosts will receive:

- Complimentary copies of the book
- Access to Whole Child Champion guest speakers (virtual or in person)
- Adaptable Facilitator's Guide
- Discussion materials
- A topical index of the book

Share resources

We are actively curating resources and examples for superintendents, educators and community members. For the current list or to contribute to the "best picks" library, contact Laura Jahromi.

Expand the story harvest

Sharing stories is the key to growing and sustaining a vibrant community. If you know of teachers, parents or guardians, community members or young people who have stories to tell about the transformations they are bringing about through whole child education, encourage them to contribute to the online Story Harvest.

STORIES CAN BE SHARED AT:
WHOLECHILDCHALLENGE.ORG/TAKE-ACTION/